Sample Story: George was a boy with great potential. He was really interested in music, so his parents sent him to learn the violin. He became a talented young musician and was recognized by his school teachers. They selected him to perform in front of the President of India, during the Golden jubilee celebrations of his school. He was apprehensive at first, and so practiced very well. Before his first grand performance in front of the President, he put down his violin and relaxed to get more concentration. Finally, everything went well during the program and he put up a classic performance. His teachers congratulated him, and he grew up to become a professional violinist.
